Section C: References

You must submit a total of three references with your FLAS application. Two of these must be letters of recommendation relating to your qualifications for this award. The third, as explained below, is usually a language reference. Please indicate the name of each of your referees along with their email addresses here. Make sure you notify your selected referees prior to completing your application. You are strongly encouraged to discuss your application with your referees prior to sending the email notifications below.)

If you are already a student at UW-Madison, at least one of the letters of recommendation must be current. If you are an advanced graduate student, one of the letters of recommendation must be from your major professor. (Some centers require that all graduate students, including incoming graduate students, must obtain a letter of recommendation from a professor in the department they are in or will be entering. This should be from a professor that the applicant is most likely to select as an adviser or who will at least work closely with the student. Please check with your FLAS Coordinator at the address below.)

Your language references should be on the HEA Title VI Language Reference form. You can click here to generate a hardcopy of this form to take to your language evaluator or you can fill in that person's name and email below and click the button to send them a link to an online version. If you have had previous training in the language for which you are applying, submit the reference for that language. If you have not had training in the language for which you are applying, submit a reference for a language in which you are most fluent. The referee who completes this form may also submit one of the two other letters of recommendation. If you have not had any prior college-level language training, submit a third academic reference.

- Private Sector, Non-Profit
- US Military
- Other, please specify below:

In one paragraph, describe how the language and area training you receive during the period of your FLAS fellowship will help prepare you to achieve your academic and career goals.

Describe your training to date, your primary research interests, and the themes in your coursework and/or thesis or dissertation projects. [500-1200 words] The evaluation committee understands that beginning or early graduate students may have rudimentary thesis or dissertation plans, while more advanced students will be able to lay out plans for major research projects in some detail. Likewise, the committee understands that essays from undergraduate applicants or those in professional schools or other non-thesis degree programs will be quite different from essays written by students planning theses or dissertations. So, view this essay as a chance to inform the committee of your current thoughts on how you hope to advance knowledge in your field or use your training to prepare for valuable work in a profession.
